

Affairs, Infidelity and Relationship: Working with crises of trust & respect

Discover the transformative power of addressing infidelity effectively. When someone has broken the rules of the relationship, the rules of therapy need to change too! Let me show you how and why. My two-day, in-person training will give you the knowledge and skills to turn this crisis into a unique opportunity for growth.

Whether you specialize in working with couples or individuals, this workshop is tailor-made to elevate your practice. Gain the tools to effectively address and heal the wounds caused by infidelity, fostering profound growth and renewal in your clients' lives. Learn from my 30 years of hard-won experience about what does and doesn't work when the foundations of a relationship get rocked.

In this dynamic and practical two-day workshop, you will learn key assessment targets and straightforward interventions that can settle your client(s) right down and give them the best possible chance to turn this crisis into growth, learning and deeper intimacy.

Topics covered will include:

- How to talk about and deal with trust issues
- Which of the many flavours & faces of infidelity are you dealing with?
- Tailoring interventions to a person's developmental level
- Helping both parties to have a realistic and deep understanding of how and why the infidelity happened
- Recognising and naming who is responsible for what – working with infidelity in the context of broader relationship dynamics
- What is and what isn't a deal breaker
- Working with extreme emotional responses
- The impact on YOU– your views and history with infidelity and trust

I'm Nic Beets, one of the very few clinical psychologists in NZ who specialises in couple, relationship and sex therapy. As well as offering training & supervision, I work online with couples at www.RelationshipWork.nz & wrote "Make Love Work – A Practical Guide to Relationship Success", published last year by Allen & Unwin
